

GREEN-Inside... nothing new at Vowalon?

...on the one hand YES, because with the solvent-free finishing of synthetic leather on an aqueous basis, Vowalon has been a pioneer in the use of environmentally compatible raw materials in the industry for more than 20 years. VOWA_{led} upholstery synthetic leather also performs well in terms of ecological sustainability. We produce our stock collections completely phthalate-free, sustainably and in a particularly resource-saving way. One such "green highlight" is the high-quality PUR upholstery synthetic leather Pasco, which is coated without the use of solvents.

...on the other hand NO, because we are constantly developing and researching further - sustainable development is particularly close to our hearts: for selected PVC coatings we use bio-based raw materials. In addition to the excellent eco-balance, these new developments have further positive properties with regard to odour and emission behaviour as well as high resistance to perspiration and cosmetics.

...another forward-looking innovation in terms of sustainability, combined with a new textile surface, will be presented by us at the Heimtextil trade fair in January. You will be surprised!

On your mark..., get set..., go!

...that was the motto for our VOWA_{team} on 01.09. for the annual company run of the Volksbank Vogtland eG in Plauen. In this charitable event for the benefit of children with cancer, the runners had to cover a distance of 5 km in under an hour. Our 15-member team, equipped with Vowalon running shirts and a VOWA_{bag}, took up the sporting challenge and was able to beat the time target, in some cases significantly.

We welcome our new Trainees

We create diversity... together with our new Trainees! With the start of the new training year, many committed young people in our company are once again beginning to learn a profession. At the same time, we are pleased to announce the addition of a trained product finisher to the team in our Finishing Division.

At our company location in Treuen we offer training for: industrial management assistant, product finisher in textile coating, industrial mechanic, mechatronics technician, IT specialist, as well as the dual study program Bachelor of Arts (m|f|d).

Please note our Christmas holiday from 22.12.2021 - 07.01.2022!
